Foster Says the Knights are Fighting for One Now.

AGAINST THE ORDER'S RUL

Powderly and His Committee in Washington Looking After Seven Printers.

To-Day the Weather Bureau Will Transfered from the War Department to the Agricultural Department—Texas Patents.

Powderly's Committee.

Special to the Gazette.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Powderly, Hays and Devin, the executive committee of the Knights of Labor, arrived in Washington this morning to look after the trouble between the chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and the seven discharged plate-printers. Today are accompanied by Hugh Cavanaugh, the labor leader of Cincinnati. Cavanaugh called on Secretary Foster this morning to have the way for a compromise and ascertain the disposition of the secretary in the matter. He got very little encouragement. Foster gave him to understand that the discharged plate-printers need no entertain the idea of getting a "vindication" that he would do what he had at hand. He said that he would not create any vacancies for them or do anything else. The secretary said to Cavanaugh, and afterwards repeated it in an interview, that he would yield nothing further to the demands of these men, and called attention to the fact that the man in whose interest chiefly the fight is being made by the Knights, is a saloonkeeper, and under the laws of the order has no right to recognition by its officers. He says that there is no indication in Ohio that McKinley is to be benefited by the Knights of Labor.

Signal Service Change.

Special to the Gazette.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Professor Harrington of the University of Michigan was today appointed chief of the weather bureau, which has been transferred from the signal service under General Greeley, to Secretary Rusk's department of agriculture. A number of officers, headed by Maj. Duwoody, have been detailed to duty in this bureau, and the friends of Major Duwoody, who has a record as the most successful "indication" expert in the bureau while under the "parent" command, have expected all along that he would be put in charge of the weather work. Secretary Rusk is said to have been greatly pleased with the writings of Professor Harrington on meteorological subjects.

The change of the signal service department from the army to the department of agriculture, which takes place to-morrow, will not have any effect in reality upon employees so far as their employment is concerned, despite the fact that a number have been discharged. They are guaranteed to be continued at least until the term of service for which they enlist in the army expires. It is the first time on record, however, when such a body of soldiers have been discharged from the army without their consent under anything like similar circumstances. The 340 or 350 men composing the signal service corps will, to-morrow, no longer be subject to military discipline. Thus a major, four captains and four first lieutenants with fifty sergeants and all other non-commissioned officers and men lose their rank at one stroke.

Schools for the Blind.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The census bureau has issued a bulletin on the subject of schools for the blind. It appears that the total number of these schools in the United States in 1890 was 2301, while in 1890 the number was 2241, a decrease of 60. This apparent decrease, it is ascribed to some extent to the increased facilities for the reception and education of the blind in schools not established for this purpose. The average annual cost per pupil in the schools for the blind from 1880 to 1890 was $288.

A Consultation Held.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Mr. Ryan, secretary of state of Ohio, and Mr. Watson, attorney-general of the same state, had a short conference with the secretary of the treasury this morning and immediately after took the train for New York. It is said that their business with the secretary was in regard to the labor troubles in the bureau of engraving and printing.

Cavanaugh of Cincinnati, representing

Knights of Labor, had an interview with Secretary Foster in regard to the troubles at the bureau of engraving and printing. The secretary told him that the president McKinley would be dissatisfied.

Not Recognized by Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Don Pedro Monte, Mexican congressional envoy, allowed today to pass without making his name at the executive mansion of the United States government is considered at the mission with which Senator and his associates are charged is a in so far as their official recognition of the States government is concerned. It is improbable that they will be recognized in any capacity either officially or unofficially by any executive officer of the government. A person well versed in diplomatic practices, thoroughly acquainted with the history of the department, this afternoon said that the reason for the adoption of this course by our government was broader than any of the questions involved in the present case, and was founded on a uniform line of precedent running back to the date of our civil war. It is said in diplomatic circles that this question is founded on good policy and tends to conserve American interests.

Drouth in Russia.

LONDON, June 30.—The Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent declares the harvest in Russia this year is likely to be the worst on record. He draws a harrowing picture of the results of continued drouth. The prices of cereals, he says, are rising hourly. Rye has never before been so dear. Throughout the western, central and the greater portion of Southern Russia the outlook is dismal.

The ministerial crisis says the winter crop in the south and east perished by the frosts. Famine is already visible in the face of the peasantry of Kholmna. Disease has already broken out. The only food is oatmeal mixed with bark or similar ingredients.

As seen among the indulgents receiving money there are 146 noblemen and seventy-six priests. In other districts similar conditions are reported.

In the Asiatic colony at Rongelap many people are dying of hunger, and hundreds have to huddle together. Several families are in one room for the sake of warmth.

Some papers contain advertisements for children for sale. The government is taking precautions against expected revolts. Taxes are collected with usual regularity. Failure to pay is visited with a severe flogging.

The emperor declared the treaty for the renewal of the Dreibund about opposite Cuba, during the passage down the Elbe.

The emperor and empress landed in Heligoland last evening and were received by Commander Gieseler. Admiral von Doy Goltz, and other high officials. The emperor visited the highest point on the island, and conversed with his staff officers as to its defensive value. The leading feature of the ceremonies was the presentation to the emperor of the first recruit born in Heligoland last month. The infant, now ten months old, was dressed as a Hussar, and was presented to the emperor and empress, who expressed great pleasure and sympathy with the child's mother and shook hands with the other children.

New Mexican Tariff.

Special to the Gazette.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 30.—The new custom tariff approved by the minister of the treasury, Gomez Farias, has been sent to the president and is now being published into effect. No reduction has been made in the tariff, but the rules have been changed so as to facilitate the entrance of goods into the country and many regulations for merely small shipments have been abolished. Gomez Farias is trying in every way possible to favor commerce and is already very popular among the merchants.

Popular Education in England.

LONDON, June 30.—While the house of commons was in committee on the public instruction bill, Right Hon. Henry Harcourt (Liberal) moved the insertion of a clause in favor of local representation in the control of the schools receiving the grants. Fowler's motion had the approval of the Liberal leaders.

Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain said that the principle of the bill was to give free education without disturbing the status of the schools. He admitted, however, that a case was made out for greater control of the voluntary schools, and that the time was ripe for the managers to consider whether popular control could not be introduced without injury. Popular control of these schools meant the establishment of school boards in their place which would involve the additional cost of £10,000,000 per year which the country would not grant. Under Fowler's proposal, Chamberlain continued, popular control would apply to five-sixths of the church schools, but not to the Wesleyan or Catholic schools. In conclusion Chamberlain said that he earnestly wished to see free education conferred upon the country, but Fowler's motion complicated the government measure and he hoped it would be rejected.

Goschen declared that there was no proof of the existence of religious oppression in the voluntary schools and popular control would fall to the support of religious intolerance, which occurred occasionally. He concluded by quoting from Gladstone's speech to the effect that it would be folly to refuse the powerful aid to secular education provided by religious zeal.

Fowler's motion was rejected, 276 to 166.

A BACK-LOG.

That is What Gold Coin is in Our Uncle Sam's Dominion.

JAY GOULD'S HOPEFUL VIEW.

Gold Will Soon Come Back to the United States to Pay for Our Wheat.

There Will be no Tight Money, for Every body Has Provided Against It—Gold Shipments a Blessing in Disguise.

No Gold Ordered.

Special to the Gazette.

New York, June 30.—The evidence was even stronger today than yesterday that operators are accumulating stocks in expectation of a little investment boom in July. Prices were much stronger this morning, owing chiefly to London buying improvement continued through the day, many stocks showing advances of over a point from yesterday's closings. Purchases in London were estimated at over 300,000 shares. There were enough to cause a slight strengthening of exchange rates. No more gold was ordered for export.

Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western was active and strong today, as report that the road would be sold to the Chicago and Northwestern. Officers of the road deny the rumor and say that it is merely the revival of an old story.

Railway bonds were more active and generally strong. Atchafson incomes advanced 3 points. Final prices were generally from 2 to 2 1/2 points above yesterday's. Silver and gold prices were very strong.

Industrious exchange was weak, owing to London's purchases, which were much more active than in the past.

Western authentic sales-people ordered, and of 100,000 per ton, except an advance in Lake Michigan and Lake Superior. Eastern points in advance also.

A Big Tobacco Deal.

New York, June 30.—The official announcement was made by Lorillard & Co. and business circles that Lorillard & Co. tobacco manufacturers had been turned over to a stock company, to be known as P. Lorillard & Co., with a capital of $2,000,000, which would be divided into 20,000 shares, each of $100.00. The stock will be listed on the New York stock exchange.

Dreisel, Morgan & Co. Did It.

Special to the Gazette.

New York, June 30.—The Post says: Another curious development in the sterling exchange market to-day made an abrupt change in the course of stock prices. One of the most important exchange houses appeared unexpectedly in the market as large sellers of eight bills. This depressed sterling rates at once, and will, in all probability, prevent further export of gold this week, especially as remittances for July interest payments on the other side are now about due. This action of Dreisel, Morgan & Co. was not anticipated yesterday by the banking community because all negotiations then pointed to a profit in buying rather than selling exchange. With concessions in rates these sales could not have been made at a profit, but the market is held at present quotations, or lower than for a week. The check on the outward gold movement may not prove to be permanent, but the situation must continue to be regulated in a large measure by the attitude of London and Continental bankers.

Jay Gould's View.

Special to the Gazette.

New York, June 30.—Jay Gould said to a Gazette reporter to-day: Gold expectation does not create a comfortable feeling, however harmless the results will be in the end. It is a blessing in disguise, demonstrating the great wealth and financial strength of this country. We have believed the greater countries of Europe from their embarrasments and yet money here is 2 percent on call and below the legal rate on time. We do not need gold, because in this country it is a reserve, a financial back-log; nobody wants it for circulating currency. The export of gold affects sentiment in this country. We have no need of it. In the fall we will supply Europe with wheat, and for it Europe will return our gold. I do not believe we shall have tight money. Nearly everybody has provided for such an emergency. And we shall realize earlier than usual from wheat exports. Wheat has begun to move on our Kansas lines. Money for the winter crop will begin to arrive by the time the spring crops move. I know the stock market will advance, but whether now or a little later I do not know. There is only light pressure of money, but there are some bonds for sale by people who have taken them in liquidation of obligations. Missouri Pacific has passed through one of the most trying times of the past five years better than most Western roads. Its stock is selling far below its real value.

A Family Poisoned.
